General description of the school

Founded in August 2000, Missouri Academy of Science, Mathematics and Computing (Missouri Academy or MASMC) is a two-year, residential, early-college school for high performing and academically talented high school students. It is located on the campus of Northwest Missouri State University and is an integral part of the university. The school enrolls domestic and international students who have completed only 10th grade at their traditional high schools. In essence, the Missouri Academy replaces the junior and senior years of traditional high school. The curriculum is rigorous and consists of all college coursework taught by professors at Northwest Missouri State University. Missouri Academy students sit in the same classrooms side-by-side with traditional university students; and professors have the same high expectations for these students as they do of traditional university students. Thus, all courses taken by Missouri Academy students are:

- Taught on the campus of Northwest Missouri State University
- Taught by regular faculty members of Northwest Missouri State University
- Taken in competition with degree candidates at Northwest Missouri State University
- Offered as regular part of the Northwest Missouri State University academic curriculum

High school students who successfully complete this program receive an Associate of Science (AS) degree, as well as a high school diploma. It is an opportunity for exceptional students to live and study in a community of peers. The Missouri Academy is highly selective and only the best and brightest students are admitted to undertake what is arguably one of the most difficult high school curricula in the Midwest (in the USA).

School administration

The Missouri Academy is fully part of Northwest Missouri State University (a state-assisted public university), and as such, it is publicly funded. Within the university structure, the Missouri Academy operates semi-autonomously – with its own staff members whose function is to recruit students, manage student residential life and monitor academic progress. However, all academic instruction is provided by university professors as described above. The principal administrator is a dean of the Missouri Academy who reports to the Associate Provost for Undergraduate Studies/Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences at Northwest Missouri State University. Approximately 90% of the Missouri Academy funding comes from the university, and 10% comes from the Missouri Department of Elementary and Secondary Education through the state-funded Average Daily Attendance (K-12) formula funding.

Admission to the Missouri Academy

To be considered for admission into the Missouri Academy, a high school sophomore must have a minimum ACT composite score of 23 and a minimum mathematics sub-score of 24 OR minimum SAT scores of 1060 total and 560 mathematics sub-score. Furthermore, all students who enroll must have completed Algebra II and Geometry. The admissions committee at the Missouri Academy uses the following five factors during the selection process: (1) ACT/SAT scores, (2) Grade-point average or GPA in 9th and 10th grades, (3) Class rank, (4) Teacher evaluations, (5) Student essays and (6) High school counselor report.

Students must successfully complete two years at the Missouri Academy to graduate. Thus, every fall semester, a new class of incoming students join a class of returning students. The table below shows admissions data for incoming cohorts for the past nine years. The average age of these incoming students is 16.1 years.

Student development

Student development philosophy

Student development is an important part of the experience at the Missouri Academy. Throughout the two years the Missouri Academy Residential Life staff develops programs designed to provide support for student growth in leadership, responsibility and citizenship.

Most students who attend the Missouri Academy are not only high performing in science, mathematics, and computing, but are also gifted/ talented in music, arts, the humanities, athletics and community service. They have performed extremely well at local, statewide and multi-state appearances for Model United Nations, Boys State and Girls State, community service projects, musical ensembles and theatre.

Clubs and organizations

Missouri Academy students have opportunities to participate in many activities and organizations. Some of the clubs and organizations are only for Missouri Academy students, and others are university-wide and appropriate for adolescents 15-18 years of age. Some examples of these clubs and organizations include:

Missouri Academy clubs and organizations:

- Student Government Association
- Beta Club
- Yearbook Club
- Model United Nations
- Future Business Leaders of America (FBLA)
- Missouri Academy Mathematics Team
- Robotics Club
- Residential Life Committee
- Prom Committee
- Improv Club
- Student Activities Committee
- Second Year Experience
- Science Olympiad

University-wide clubs, organizations and other activities:

- Northwest Marching Band
- Northwest Orchestra
- Northwest Residence Hall Association
- Religious organizations
- Forensics
- Research and internships
- Northwest Student Senate
- International student organizations

Community service

Community service is central to the philosophy and living/learning community of the Missouri Academy. Students participate in voluntary community service activities throughout the two years in residence. These community service activities range from painting homes in the local Maryville community, to helping in nursing homes, to tutoring in local schools, to adopting a highway, to a canned food drive and assisting with care of animals at the local Humane Society of Maryville.

Institutional accreditation and program membership

The Missouri Academy is an integral part of Northwest Missouri State University. Northwest is a public four-year, moderately selective, Masters I institution (Carnegie Classification) with more than 6,800 students. The university offers 124 programs of study. The university is accredited by the Higher Learning Commission of the North Central Association of Colleges and Schools. The Missouri Academy is an institutional member of the National Consortium of Specialized Secondary Schools (NCSSS), a member of the National Consortium of Early College Entrance Programs

(NCECEP), and a member of the Coalition of Leaders for Advanced Student Success (CLASS) which works to ensure the nation's best and brightest students, regardless of income, have the skills and knowledge to succeed in school and the workforce.
