EHS CORNER

'Tis the Season for Holiday Stress

If you're like most people, the holidays can be equally fun and stressful. Here are some ways to combat the stress so you can enjoy your holiday safely:

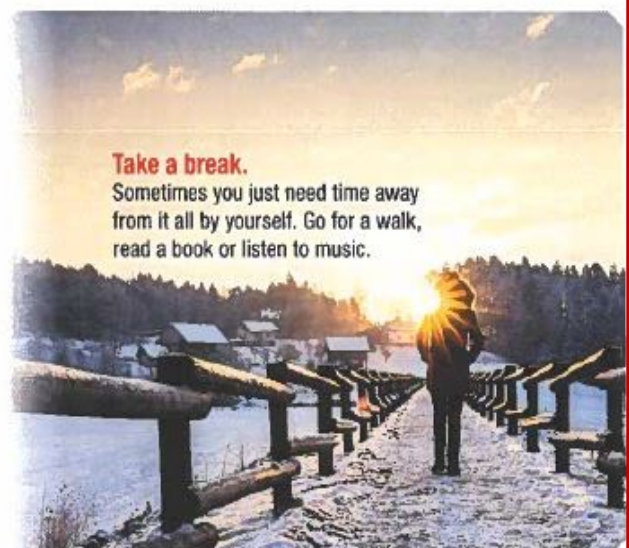

Give yourself time to get things done. Start gift shopping early or take a day off to do everything on your list. Rushing can lead to accidents and injury.

Take care of yourself by getting plenty of sleep, exercising and eating healthy.

Delegate holiday-related tasks. Ask your partner or children to help wrap presents or shop.

Learn to say "no." Don't take on extra work, don't accept every invite to every party or cookie exchange if you feel overwhelmed.

Seek help. Holidays can be depressing as well as joyful. If you're feeling sad or depressed, try reaching out to a family member, friend or mental health professional for support.

Take a break.

Sometimes you just need time away from it all by yourself. Go for a walk, read a book or listen to music.

WINTER COAT DRIVE

Northwest is accepting new and gently used adult men and women winter coat donations for those students who are in need this winter.

Please bring donations to the Facility Services main office. We are also accepting monetary donations towards the purchase of new coats through the Pay It Forward Fund (tax deductible). <https://www.nwmissouri.edu/foundation/opportunities/bearcatshelpingbearcats.htm>

If you have questions please call Facility Services at 660-562-1183.

CAMPUS KUDDOBOARD

Thank you to environmental services who cleaned Martindale 302 on Nov. 30th after another group had left the room and the floor a mess. The Natural Resource History & Interpretation Final project was a success due to this. We greatly appreciated those who took the extra time to clean this room. The event was a success!-- Dr. Alice Foose
