Faculty Senate – Dr. John Gallaher

- Written report was provided and the additional report below:
Thank you for the opportunity to speak today, as well as at the board of regents work session on Monday.

Faculty senate has been working on many things this fall that you will hear more about in the spring. Among them are the employee satisfaction survey outcomes and process, academic integrity policy and procedure, profession-based learning, assessment best practices, and, to highlight one, we continue to work on the issue of civility (along with staff and the administration), and are pleased with the progress and, personally, I've really enjoyed working with staff council and the DEI office. I don't know how we functioned in the past without a staff council. We've a great group.

December 14, 2017
Board of Regents Meeting

Looking forward, my goal for faculty senate for the remainder of the school year, as president and spokesperson, is to continue to improve lines of communication within the faculty (on and off campus) as well as between faculty and staff, administration and the board of regents. As I said last month in my report, how we, faculty, staff, administration, and the board, work together, how we communicate, what our shared process is, is of fundamental importance. We will not always agree on each decision, such as the Chapter 2 changes, but through a shared commitment to the process, to collaboration, at the end of the day, we will remain united in our mission, vision and values. The faculty senate is strongly committed to continuing to work toward that end.

Because one should probably never allow poets to be faculty senate presidents, an aside:

Because we're heading into winter break, and because I've long been a fan of charming anecdotes and flighty metaphors, I will close with this: this morning, I watched a charming little play put on by the Horace Mann 5th and 6th grade, about a moose with glowing antlers who guides Santa's sleigh when Rudolph (masterfully played by my son) comes down with a cold. The question I posed to my son after, is, next year, when Rudolph is back to health, which of them, Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer or Randy the Red-Horned Rainmoose, will guide Santa's sleigh. He decided that maybe they will guide it together, as they'd make more light. So that is my wish for us, heading into next semester: more light.

President - Dr. John Jasinski
