Diversity Hours Required for Graduation

Degree seeking graduate students and post baccalaureate students seeking teacher certification are required to complete a six hour diversity experience.

As a graduate student some of these hours may be completed as part of one of your required courses (depending on your program); the remaining hours are left up to you to complete on your own.

These diversity hours are to be completed separately from the field experience diversity requirements listed above unless otherwise specified within your program.

To complete these hours you must work with populations which may include the diversity qualifiers of: ethnicity, race, socioeconomic status, gender, exceptionalities, language, religion, sexual orientation, geographical area, or age.
