Purpose

This written directive will provide the standard policy and proper procedure for Remote Work as an employee of Northwest Missouri State University (the “University”).

Definition(s)

Remote Work: (also known as working from home, or e-commuting) is a work arrangement in which the employee works outside the office, often working from home or a location close to home (including coffee shops, libraries, and various other venues), rather than physically traveling to a central workplace.

General Policy

This policy will allow employees to work at home, on the road or in a satellite location for all or part of their workweek. The University considers remote work to be a viable, flexible work option when it determines that both the employee and the job are suited to such an arrangement. Remote Work may be appropriate for some employees and jobs but not for others. Remote Work is not an entitlement, it is not a company-wide benefit, and it in no way changes the terms and conditions of employment with the University. The University has the right to refuse to make remote work available to an employee and to terminate a remote work arrangement at any time. Remote workers should be good planners, self-motivated, strong communicators, able to manage their workload effectively, aware of their personal work style preferences, flexible, committed and responsible, willing to ask for feedback, able to work independently with minimal supervision, able to work without continual input and support from others, comfortable working and being alone, possess time management skills, proven producers of quality work, and able to focus on priorities and meet deadlines.

Eligibility

Individuals requesting formal remote work arrangements must have a satisfactory performance record, which is determined by the University in its sole discretion. Before entering into any remote work agreement, the employee and their manager or supervisor, with the assistance of the Office of Human Resources, will evaluate the suitability of such an arrangement, reviewing the following areas:

- Employee suitability. The employee and manager will assess the needs and work habits of the employee, compared to traits customarily recognized as appropriate for successful remotework.
- Job responsibilities. The employee and manager will discuss the job responsibilities and determine if the job is appropriate for a remote work arrangement.
- Equipment needs, workspace design considerations and scheduling issues. The employee and manager will - review the physical workspace needs and the appropriate location for the remotework.

- Tax and other legal implications. The employee must determine any tax or legal implications under IRS, state and local government laws, and/or restrictions of working out of a home-basedoffice. Responsibility for fulfilling all obligations in the area rests solely with the employee.

If the employee and their manager agree, and a Northwest Leadership Team (“NLT”) member and the Office of Human Resourcesapprove, then the employee will be eligible to enter into a Remote Work Agreement.

As part of the eligibility process, the employee and supervisor will agree on the number of days of remote work allowed each week, the work schedule the employee will customarily maintain, and the manner and frequency of communication. The employee agrees to be accessible by phone, video call, email, and chat within a reasonable time period during the agreed upon work schedule. The University retains the right to modify, at its discretion, the number of days of remote work allowed, the employee’swork schedule and the manner and frequency of communication.

Application Procedure

A remote work arrangement must first be applied for via the Remote Work Application located withinthe Office of Human Resources. Once approved by all parties (supervisor, NLT member, and Human Resources) a remote work arrangement can move forward.

Hours of Remote Work and Availability

- Remote workers shall work normally scheduled hours.
- During normally scheduled hours, remote workers must communicate any unavailability to theirsupervisor.
- During normally scheduled hours, unavailable time must be approved by the remote workers’supervisor and reflected on the workers’ time sheet.
- University leave policies will apply equally to remote workers.
- During normally scheduled hours, the remote worker must keep their availability on their personal email calendar up to date with “out of office” events to indicate any work-related unavailability.
- Remote working employees who are not exempt from the overtime requirements of the FairLabor Standards Act will be required to accurately record all hours worked using the University’s time-keeping system. Hours worked in excess of those scheduled per day and perworkweek require the advance approval of the employee’s supervisor. Failure to comply withthis requirement may result in the immediate termination of the remote work agreement, discipline, and/or termination of employment.

Remote Access

Remote access will be made available via VPN, and set up by an IT ticket, upon approval forremote work.

The employee must provide their own internet connection. The employee will be solely responsible for purchasing any hardware or software required for the internet connection. The employee shall also be solely responsible for cost of installation and associated monthly fees.

Any connectivity problems constitute grounds for canceling this remote work arrangement and do not excuse unavailability or delinquent work.

Equipment

On a case-by-case basis, the University will determine, with information supplied by the employee andthe supervisor, the appropriate equipment needs for each remote work arrangement. The Office of Human Resources and Information Technology department will serve as resources in this matter.

Providing equipment may require advanced notice to order equipment of at least three weeks, sometimes longer.

Equipment supplied by the University will be maintained by the University. University supplied equipment needing troubleshooting/repair that cannot be accomplished with remote assistance tools is to be returned to campus.

Equipment supplied by the employee, if deemed appropriate by the University, will be maintained by the employee. The University accepts no responsibility for damage or repairs to employee-owned equipment.

The University reserves the right to make determinations as to appropriate equipment, subject to change at any time. Equipment supplied by the University is to be used for business purposes only. The remote worker must sign an inventory of all University property received and agree to take appropriate action to protect the items from damage or theft. The employee agrees to report to the supervisor instances of loss, damage, or unauthorized access at the earliest reasonable opportunity. The employee is responsible for all printing hardware, supplies, and associated costs.

Upon termination of employment, all University property will be returned to the University, unless other arrangements have been made. The University reserves the right to make determinations as to equipment needed or the adequacy of the equipment, subject to change at any time.

Security

Consistent with the University's expectations of information security for employees working at the office, remote working employees will be expected to ensure the protection of proprietary university and employee information accessible from their home office. Steps include the use of locked file cabinets and desks, regular password maintenance, and any other measures appropriate for the job and the environment.

Ongoing Remote Worker Responsibilities

- Remote worker is responsible for proper ergonomics of the equipment being used.
- Remote worker is responsible for working in an environment with minimal background noise to receive phone and video calls.
- Remote worker is responsible for saving all work-related files back to the University network or University approved cloud services at the end of the day.

Other Remote Work Provisions and Conditions

- There may be times where the remote worker must appear in person at the office for meetings, events or other activities.
- There may be occasions when remote work is suspended for a given period of time because of unexpected events, emergencies, business need or other reason. Advance notice will be provided if possible.
- The employee will establish and maintain an appropriate work environment within their home for work purposes. The University will not be responsible for costs associated with initial setup of the employee's home office such as remodeling, furniture or lighting, nor for repairs or modifications to the home office space.
- The University assumes no responsibility for injuries occurring in the employee's at-home workspace outside the agreed-upon work hours or for activities beyond the course and scope of employment. The employee agrees to hold the University harmless for injury to others at the alternate work site. The employee agrees to maintain safe conditions in the at-home workspace, including proper ergonomics, or if outside the employee's at-home workspace, or University facilities at any time, and to practice the same safety habits as those followed on University premises. Remote work employees are responsible for notifying their supervisor of any workplace injuries immediately.
- The employee understands that their personal vehicle will not be used for University business unless specifically authorized by the supervisor. However, the employee may use their personal vehicle for travel to and from the University, when required to do so by the University.
- The employee understands that they are responsible for tax consequences, if any, of this arrangement (i.e. to be discussed with your tax advisor - your responsibility).
- The employee and supervisor will agree on the number of days of remote work allowed each week, the work schedule the employee will customarily maintain, and the manner and frequency of communication. The employee agrees to be accessible by phone, video call, email, and chat within a reasonable time period during the agreed upon work schedule.

- The evaluation of the remote worker's performance throughout their employment relationship with the University may include periodic interaction by phone and e-mail between the employee and the supervisor, and periodic face-to-face meetings to discuss work progress and problems. The remote worker will be subject to scheduled performance review in the same manner and frequency as other University employees.
- Remote work is not designed to be a replacement for appropriate child/eldercare. Although an individual employee's schedule may be modified to accommodate child/eldercare needs, the focus of the arrangement must remain on job performance and meeting business demands. Prospective remote workers are encouraged to discuss expectations of remote work with family members. The employee should not undertake other activities such as, but not limited to, providing primary care for a young child or an ill or disabled adult, performing volunteer work or participating in another business venture during at home working hours.
- The availability of remote work can be discontinued at any time at the discretion of the University. The University will attempt to provide reasonable notice of such a change. There may be instances, however, where less or no notice is practicable, desired or possible. In addition, the University retains the right to terminate or modify this policy or a particular remote working arrangement on a temporary or permanent basis in its sole discretion.
- The employee must return University equipment, records, and materials within three (3) days of the termination of the Remote Work Agreement and/or termination of employment. Further, all University equipment will be returned to the University by the employee for inspection, repair, replacement, or repossession within three (3) days of written notice.

Ad Hoc Arrangements

Temporary remote work arrangements may be approved for circumstances such as inclement weather, special projects or business travel. These arrangements are approved on an as-needed basis only, with no expectation of ongoing continuance.

Other informal, short-term arrangements may be made for employees on family or medical leave to the extent practical for the employee and the organization and with the consent of the employee's health care provider, if appropriate.

All informal remote work arrangements are made on a case-by-case basis, focusing first on the business needs of the University.
