WHY MAJOR IN PSYCHOLOGY?

Psychology majors at Northwest learn the scientific study of a person's thoughts and behaviors. Northwest faculty help students understand three core areas: scientific research methods that enhance critical thinking skills, evidence and claims knowledge; insight of an individual's personal behavior, motives and thought processes; and the understanding of the biological and social factors that contribute to human development, cognitive skills, relationships and personality.

Minor in Psychology

A minor in psychology teaches students the fundamentals of cognitive, developmental and biological psychology, the psychology of personality and social psychology. After taking the required courses, students can customize their minor from a list of approved electives. For a list of required courses, visit the academic catalog. This minor requires the completion of 24 credit hours.

CAREER OPPORTUNITIES

More than 94% of students who graduated with a degree in psychology obtained employment or continued their education within six months after graduation. Below is a list of possible job titles:

- Crisis Counselor
- Family Counselor
- Social Worker
- Substance Abuse Counselor
- Youth Counselor

*Based on self-reported data in recent years.

INTERNSHIPS

Although internships are not required in the psychology major, they are highly encouraged to gain hands-on, real-world experience.

“ This fall I was an intern for the New Beginnings Counseling Center in Maryville. It was an opportunity that I never imaged I would have. I worked with substance and alcohol abuse clients monitoring individual and group-counseling sessions. This is a picture of me and my fellow intern, Courtney (Northwest graduate) jumping into Mozingo Lake for our polar plunge to raise awareness for mental health and substance abuse. We raised more than $700! When I finished the internship, I received my certification as a recognized associate substance abuse counselor, second level, RASAC II! ”
