

Northwest Missouri State University
 School of Language, Literature, and Writing
 English: Creative Writing Emphasis (Minor Required), 36 Hours
 Bachelor of Arts

This Four-Year Plan is meant to supplement your Degree Audit. You should work with your academic advisor on a regular basis for individual academic planning.

This Four-Year Plan assumes a 24-credit hour minor. Credit hours for minors can vary and may have an impact on the number of General Electives needed to reach the 120 credit hours needed for graduation.

Milestone courses are courses which, if not taken in the appropriate semester, can delay graduation. Milestone courses are denoted in yellow below.

THE NORTHWEST DIFFERENCE

English majors tend to be readers or writers. Many are both. Through coursework in literature, writing, linguistics and the history of the English language, students explore a diverse range of texts with the goal of becoming thoughtful and knowledgeable readers, writers, thinkers, communicators and artists.

In addition to reading and writing, students are introduced to the principles of linguistics, writing pedagogy, community literacies, publishing, workplace writing and creative writing. They read and engage in discussions about literary works, participate in literary criticism, write in a variety of analytical argumentative and creative genres, and are challenged to view language through artistic, social and scientific lenses.

Minor in English

A minor in English teaches students the foundations of American and English literature. Additionally, students will learn skills about creative writing, writing for professionals and playwriting. After taking the required courses, students can customize their minor from a list of approved electives. For a list of required courses, visit the academic catalog. This minor requires the completion of 24 credit hours.

PROFESSION-BASED LEARNING EXPERIENCES

- GreenTower Press is a small press supported by the department, and managed by two faculty members. GreenTower Press publishes a highly lauded literary magazine, The Laurel Review. Each term, student interns gain professional publishing experience with GreenTower Press and The Laurel Review. Students work as editors-in-training at The Laurel Review, where they read, judge and edit manuscripts for publication.

- Middle and high school teacher candidates in English acquire not only the certification required for success in the classroom, but also the skills and experiences necessary to make meaningful and lasting change in future students' lives and communities.
